CHILDREN ARE VACCINATING.

The quarantine established by the board of health at the Axt home is being more rigidly enforced as each day passes and more care is taken now to keep people from exposing themselves than on the first day it was known there was a case of small pox in the city. Dr. Lomas stays with the Axt family and reports that there doesn't appear to be any perceptible change in the condition of Mrs. Axt. There have been no other cases reported and no persons known to the board of health have symptoms of the disease. Children are being vaccinated by the hundreds every day and the physicians believe that even should there not be another case reported, much good has been done by forcing vaccination. At St. Paul's school 279 scholars were vaccinated this morning by Drs. Duemling, Schick and Crull. After school hours each day every doctor's office is crowded with children and at the board of health office this morning Drs. Miller, Kesler and Drayer were vaccinating children whose parents were unable to bear the expense. The scare has done much to affect business of local merchants, as very few people outside the city come here to purchase. The papers in neighboring cities report numerous cases, while, as a fact, there has only been one case. It will be ten days before the board of health satisfies itself that there will be no epidemic, even should there not be another case reported.

OBITUARY.

Sarah Elizabeth Ensley was born August 2, 1841, in DeKalb county, Ind., and died after a lingering illness November 5, 1899, at her home in Washington township, Allen county. She was married to Andrew Wagaman July 4, 1878. No children were born to them, but Mrs. Wagaman took a little girl and reared her as her own, so that the bereaved husband's grief is sincerely shared by Mrs. McKinley as a daughter. Two sisters also survive—Mrs. Susan DeWinner, of Chicago, and Mrs. Cornelia A. DeLaney, of Crystal Falls, Mich. Mrs. DeLaney was present at the funeral. A large concourse of neighbors and friends gathered at the family home in Washington township Wednesday afternoon, when appropriate services were conducted by Rev. Sherman Powell, of Trinity M. E. church. Mrs. Wagaman had made her peace with God through belief in Jesus, and left assurance that all was well. The interment occurred at the Hatfield cemetery.

THE HERO IS WED.

ADMIRAL DEWEY LEADS MRS. HAZEN TO THE ALTAR.

MARRIED IN WASHINGTON

THE AFFAIR IS VERY QUIET AND SIMPLE.

FATHER MACKIN OFFICIATED

MR. AND MRS. DEWEY GO TO NEW YORK.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Admiral George Dewey and Mrs. Mildred M. Hazen were married quietly at the rectory of St. Paul's Catholic church in V street, near Fifteenth, this city, shortly before 10 o'clock this morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James F. Mackin, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Joseph H. Foley, assistant pastor, and Rev. Sidney Hurlbut.

The ceremony was of the simplest character, according to the rites of the Catholic church, and the only witnesses besides the officiating clergymen were Mrs. Washington McLean and Mrs. Ludlow, wife of Admiral Ludlow, mother and sister, respectively, of the bride, and Lieutenant Caldwell, Admiral Dewey's secretary.

The arrangements for the wedding were made with all the secrecy which has attended the whole affair. After procuring the license for the wedding yesterday Lieutenant Caldwell called upon Father Mackin, of St. Paul's, of which church Mrs. Hazen is a communicant, and arranged for the wedding this morning.

A SPECIAL DISPENSATION.

As Admiral Dewey is not a Catholic, a special dispensation was required for the performance of the ceremony, and this was procured by Father Mackin from Bishop Curtis, vicar general of the diocese of Baltimore, who granted it in the absence of Cardinal Gibbons, who is at present in New Orleans.

Father Mackin went to Baltimore for this purpose yesterday afternoon. At 9:45 this morning two carriages containing the wedding party drew up before the modest red brick rectory in the rear of St. Paul's. The general public had no intimation of where the ceremony was to take place, and not a single spectator was present as the party alighted.

Admiral Dewey and Lieutenant Caldwell quickly stepped from their carriage and the admiral assisted the bride-elect and her mother and sister from the other carriage.

THE BRIDE'S GOWN.

Mrs. Hazen was gowned in a pearl gray silk over which she wore a long stylish black wrap trimmed with silver fox and lined with lavender silk.

The admiral wore a black frock coat, gray trousers and a silk hat.

Upon entering the rectory they were ushered into the reception room where Admiral Dewey was presented to Father Mackin and the two clergymen who were to assist in the ceremony.

Upon being presented to Father Mackin the admiral said that he had heard that Father Mackin had in his early years been a sailor and it gave him additional happiness to know that he was to be married by a clergyman who had at one time followed the sea. Father Mackin replied happily that when he found he could not become an admiral he had determined to become a priest. Mrs. Hazen removed her wrap and she and the admiral immediately took their places in the center of the little reception room where the ceremony was performed which made them man and wife. Father Mackin and his assistants wore simple black cassocks.

PRELATE'S SOLEMN WORDS.

Before the ceremony Father Mackin addressed the the contracting parties as follows:

"Before performing the solemn words which will bind you forever together, it may be well to forget for a moment the things that are around us and look upward. We are the children of God, and we have a right to call upon Him in joy and in sorrow. We need His help in both extremes and never more than now, for although the promises you are about to make are easily made and the words spoken in a moment, their fulfilment is the work of a life time. We call upon God to witness and to bless this union of which He is the author and which He has made sacred. No matter how generous and devoted you may be to each other, there are in every life moments of trial when we, in our weakness, need the help that comes from above, and this help will be given in its fulness in return for the faithful fulfillment of our obligations. The higher your position in life the more incumbent it is upon you for faithful fulfillment of your obligation and the more rigorous the accounts that will be exacted. The neglect of these obligations will cast its shadows upon eternity. But this hour we hope marks the beginning of a career which will make you wiser, better and more useful to your fellow creatures in this life and the life beyond it, and when death at last shall break the link which binds you, as death alone can break it, may that last hour find the two hands as fondly clasped and the two hearts as closely joined as they are today, and may the joys of this life be a foretaste of the joys that are to come."

A RING CEREMONY.

The ceremony was performed with the ring, according to the nuptial rites of the Catholic church.

Including the address of Father Mackin, it consumed less than five minutes. Father Mackin was the first to hail the bride as Mrs. Dewey.

Congratulations and felictations followed and the wedding party drove directly from the rectory to the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. McLean, where a wedding breakfast was served.

Father Mackin, who performed the ceremony, when a lad of seventeen, ran away from home with two other boys and went to sea. Father Mackin's sea career, however, was very brief. He said that he found that he was unfitted for the life of a sailor and a few months found him back at his books.

THE WEDDING BREAKFAST.

After arriving at the McLean residence Admiral Dewey was driven to his own house. There he changed his costume for a traveling suit, returning to the McLean residence on foot. The wedding breakfast lasted an hour. There were present only the bride and groom, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Ludlow, Lieutenant Caldwell and Mr. Fred Bugher. The table was elaborately decorated with bride's roses.

About 12:20 the admiral and Mrs. Dewey left the McLean residence for the Pennsylvania depot. Mrs. Dewey had changed her gown in which she was married for a black traveling suit. Less than a dozen people had congregated at the depot and there was no demonstration as they passed hurriedly through the station to the train. Secretary Root boarded the train just before it pulled out and offered his congratulations in person.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

STITES.

Harvey Stites died at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at his home, 153 Montgomery street. One week ago Mr. Stites was stricken with paralysis, and while his illness was recognized as critical from the first, he had during the past few days shown signs of improvement. Wednesday morning, however, unfavorable symptoms reappeared, and he failed rapidly. Mr. Stites was among the well known young men of the city, and was owner of the cigar store and barber shop at Calhoun and Wayne streets. He was born at Churubusco, and came to Fort Wayne six years ago. Two years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Lillie Barner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Barner, of Montgomery street, who survives him. Mr. Stites was twenty-four years of age, and by his genial, cheerful disposition had made many friends.

The funeral services will be held at the residence Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock and at 10 o'clock the cortege will start for the Eel River cemetery, where the interment will occur.

FUNERAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Moriarty pleasantly entertained a number of friends at their home on South Calhoun street last evening. About twenty guests were present and the evening was pleasantly spent with music, conversation and dancing. An elegant luncheon was served at 12.

STATE IN DISPUTE

BOTH PARTIES STILL CLAIM KENTUCKY.

EACH SIDE IS CRYING FRAUD

BLACKBURN ASSERTS 4,000 PLURALITY.

REPUBLICANS CLAIM 7,000

MAY REQUIRE OFFICIAL VOTE TO SETTLE IT.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9.—10 a. m.—As the returns and corrected reports from the belated counties come in the situation in Kentucky is changed and both democrats and republicans are claiming the election this morning, the former by a plurality of 3,000 and the republicans by 7,000.

Charges of attempted fraud are being made by both parties and especially so at the republican headquarters in this city.

Senator Deboe and several prominent republicans were at the headquarters at an early hour this morning. They have received returns from every county in the state and say Taylor's majority will not fall below 5,000, and that late and official reports from many counties from which they have had unofficial figures have increased Taylor's majority.

Private advices from ex-Senator Blackburn, at Frankfort, are of an encouraging nature to democrats for they say Goebel has carried the state by 4,000 plurality, and that the figures when they are completed, will show his election and the election of the democratic ticket by that plurality.

It will take the official count to decide the question and there are already many contests in sight.

DON'T CROSS YOUR LEGS.

(Glasgow Mail.)

It was recently announced by a well known medical man that the reason men suffer so much from dyspepsia is because the stomach is crowded out of position and cannot readily perform its proper functions. Now comes a surgeon, who puts forward the suggestion that appendicitis is common because of the habit of sitting with one leg thrown over the other.

Many causes have been quoted for appendicitis, but none have satisfactorily explained why men should more frequently suffer from the disease than women. "The habit of sitting with the legs crossed," says the surgeon, "restricts the action of the digestive apparatus, especially of the lower intestine, and causes stagnation of the contents and the stretching of the opening of the vermiform appendix, making it possible for obstructions to reach the latter organ and thus causing appendicitis. The appendix is only loosely attached to the caecum, the portion where the small intestine joins the large intestine, and there is always some half-digested food in the caecal bag. By crossing the legs, and it is generally the right leg that is put upon the stretch, the undigested food passes into the vermiform appendix and sets up an inflammation. In the space of a few hours pathological processes set in and an attack of appendicitis has been developed."

Rev. Robert MacDonald, of Washington avenue Baptist church, Brooklyn, is to be one of the preachers at Harvard university this year.

TRANSFER IS MADE

OF LOCAL STREET RAILWAY

DEED FILED IN COURT AND APPROVED BY JUDGE.

BIG MORTGAGE IS RECORDED

BONDS AMOUNTING TO $1,500.000 ARE ISSUED.

The Fort Wayne Consolidated street railway is no more

At a late hour Wednesday afternoon the details for the transfer of the street railway and all its grounds, buildings, franchises and appurtenances to the Fort Wayne Traction company were completed and Co-Receiver H. C. Rockhill filed the deed with Judge O'Rourke and the sale was immediately approved. On the deed were revenue stamps which cost $1,092. Immediately on the approval of the deed of sale the street railway passed out of the control of the receivers and into the hands of the new company and hereafter the management is not responsible to the court for any of its business transactions. For the court the deeds were signed by J. H. Bass, receiver, and H. C. Rockhill, co-receiver, and for the company the signers were Vice-President E. H. Bourne and Secretary H E Gresham.

At the same time the deed was presented to the court a big mortgage was filed in the recorder's office. The mortgage is given to the Guardian Trust company. The bonded indebtedness is fixed at $1,500,000, issued in 1,500 bonds of $1.000 each. These bonds bear 4 per cent. interest.

Judge O'Rourke allowed John H. Bass $10,000 as receiver; H. C. Rockhill, $2,000 as co-receiver, and Barrett & Morris, $5,135.20 for attorneys' fees and expenses.

The directors of the company left for Cleveland on the 8:20 Nickel Plate train last evening. There was no announced change in policy and the road will continue to be operated for the next few weeks as it has been during the regime of the receiver. The directors may make improvements, but this matter must be determined after they have studied the real necessities of the system.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Wheat, influenced by lower Liverpool cables, opened unchanged today with a tendency toward weakness. December wheat opened 68⅜@68¼c and sold off to 67⅞c, reacting on buying against puts and some covering by shorts, touched 68⅛c. The initial price for the May option was 72⅛c. It eased off to 71⅞c and then reacted to 72c. Business was largely of a scalping nature and the fluctuations narrow. The weather was generally reported seasonable. Michigan and Ohio reported some injuries from insects. Receipts were small. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 714 cars, as compared with 608 last week and 1,025 a year ago. Local receipts were below the estimate, 55 cars, 10 of which were of graded contract. The foreign demand was reported slack.

Corn responded to the weakness in cables and wheat, opening a shade under yesterday's close. Country selling was light, and the market soon improved. December opened at 31⅛c and sold at 31⅜@31½c. May opened at 32⅜@32½c and advanced to 32⅝c.

Price Current put the yield at 2,207,437,000 bushels, compared with last year's 1,868,120,000 bushels. Receipts here were 180 cars.

There was almost no business in oats. December opened a shade higher at 22½c and sold at 22⅜@22½c. May opened 23⅜c and declined to 22¾c. The weakness in other grain markets was felt. Local receipts were 169 cars.

Provisions were firm but not active, showing an upward tendency with higher hog prices.

January pork opened 2½c over yesterday at $9.72½, holding at that figure. January lard and ribs opened unchanged respectively at $5.25 and $5.00 and sold unchanged.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Nov. 9.—Quotations from London showed higher prices there, and the market here responded at the opening. There was a fair sprinkling of losses among prominent stocks. Leather, after rising a fraction, dropped 4¼. Manhattan, after declining 1½, rallied ⅜.

A heavy selling movement developed which affected everything in the list. Manhattan, Sugar and Tobacco were the main points of weakness, but other specialties, the Grangers and Southwestern stocks also suffered severely. Large blocks of various stocks were unloaded on very animated dealings. Leather was less active, but nevertheless broke below 23. The bond market ruled easier in sympathy.

Pressure against the high-priced specialties was invited by the drop in Leather to 25⅛. Although Sugar, Tobacco, Smelting, American Ice, Third Avenue, Metropolitan Street Railway and Standard Rope responded 1½, there were a few stocks which advanced strongly, particularly Steel Hoop and Steel and Wire.

There was not much doing in railways, which eased off in spots.

Covering in Manhattan, Sugar and Leather turned the general trend of prices upward, but the recoveries were not important as a rule. Leather dipped again to 24⅞ near 11 o'clock and the list sympathized slightly.

Prices receded again, Sugar dipping to 153¾. The market then hardened on light trading. The Iron and Steel stocks were more resilient than the general list. The closing was dull and easy at net declines throughout.

BRITAIN'S POLICY TOWARD HOSTILE REPUBLICS.

CONVENTION IS ABROGATED

TRANSVAAL NOW HELD PART OF QUEEN'S DOMAIN.

SAME OF ORANGE FREE STATE

NO STARTLING WAR NEWS IS COMING OUT.

London, Nov. 9.—The absence of stirring war news and the rehabilitation in the estimation of the British public of General White, who, since his reverse at Nicholson's Nek certainly appears to have used his central position to successfully strike at different points of the circle of investment, thus restoring confidence in his ability to hold the Boers in check, has permitted public attention to momentarily revert to the political features of South Africa, and conflict is confidently predicted in some quarters.

Lord Salisbury, at the lord mayor's banquet tonight, will outline the government's policy in regard to the future government of the Transvaal and Orange Free State, and explain that the references in the queen's speech to "Military operations" (not "war"), and restoring peace and good government to "that portion of my empire" meant nothing more or less than that, in the opinion of the government, President Kruger, by making war on the queen, destroyed all claims to independence granted by the conventions of 1881 and 1884, and, consequently, the country had reverted to its previous status and is, theoretically, part of the queen's dominions.

As The Associated Press pointed out at the time, the phraseology of the queen's speech could not be otherwise explained than that at the time of the speech the republics of South Africa had already ceased to exist as separate nations, but if Lord Salisbury is prepared, at this early stage of the operations, to definitely announce his policy of the future, when, apparently, so many problems remain to be solved, both during and after the war, he must have already reached more definite understandings with several of the powers than the public is aware of.

The premier's speech, therefore, is awaited with unusual interest, and it seems certain that he will at least be able to announce that the talk of European intervention is groundless.

Beyond the crop of ever-recurring rumors, mostly without foundation, there is little news from the front. An official dispatch from General Buller shows Ladysmith was still in fighting trim Sunday and anticipating a recommencement of the bombardment Monday.

There is nothing, apparently, to justify the triumphant utterances in the British press. While it is admitted there is room for congratulation, there is, it is added, also room for grave fear. The announcement yesterday that 3,000 Boers, with big guns, had left Pretoria on their way to the southern border is said to be merely a ruse to hide the real destination of this force, which, it is believed, is Ladysmith.

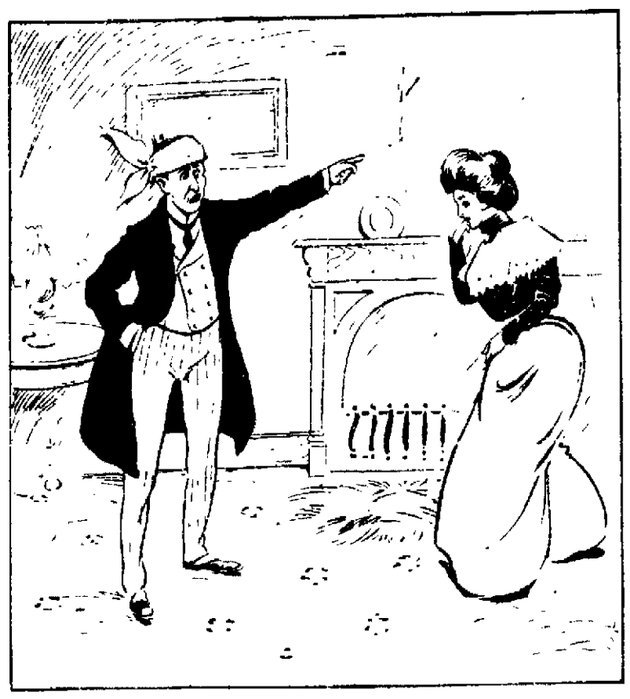

Mrs. W. S. Cutshall, of 34 East Williams street, left today for Dayton to visit with Mrs. George H. Judy, of that city.

Mrs. A. T. Whitehead, of South Calhoun street, was coming out of the Fruit House this morning, when one of the heavy doors slammed to. Her right hand was caught between the door and the frame, and the end of the thumb was cut off as cleanly as though done with a knife. The injured member was dressed by Dr. Nieschang.

Hunted Stag Swam Two Miles.
A stag, hard pressed at a run of the Devon and Somerset staghounds in the Quantock country, England, took to the Bristol channel, and was followed despite the warning notes of the huntsmen, by the whole pack of hounds. The stag swam out fully two miles from shore, completely outdistancing his pursuers, who were picked up by a boat about three-quarters of a mile out. One of the hounds was dead and the others were in an exhausted condition, while the stag died after being rescued.

PALE WOMEN

A Bloodless Face Indicates Trouble.

Watery Blood a Menace to Health.

WE KNOW HOW PALE PEOPLE CAN GET RICH RED BLOOD.

COME AND LET US TELL YOU ABOUT VINOL.

When blood is watery and thin, or, as doctors would say, lacks red blood corpuscles it is a sign that much is radically wrong.

We would advise everyone who has such symptoms to start at once to take a proper remedy to overcome this trouble.

That remedy is Vinol, the greatest and most modern tonic and rebuilder

Vinol owes its virtue to the fact that it contains in a highly concentrated state the active curative principles extracted from cods' livers, the same elements that have made cod-liver oil famous for wasting diseases

These medicinal elements are dissolved in a delicious table wine so that Vinol is most palatable.

None of the vile-smelling obnoxious grease that characterizes cod-liver oil and frequently makes it an impossible remedy for those who should take it, is found in Vinol.

We could relate many instances where Vinol has done good and restored the roses of health to the pale cheeks of the sufferer.

The following is a fair sample of the way people write in regard to Vinol:

"For several months I suffered lassitude and tired all the time Also a sinking feeling in my stomach, which nothing would relieve, and I was pale and weak As an experiment I tried Vinol and if I wrote pages I could not tell all it has done for me." –Mrs. A. K. La Prusch, Amesbury, Mass.

Because we know Vinol so well, and because we know so surely what it will do, and how it will accomplish the good it does in a scientific way, we unreservedly endorse and recommend it, and in every instance guarantee to refund to any one what they pay us for Vinol if they do not find it entirely satisfactory.

William Branstrattor, father of ex-County Surveyor Charles Branstrattor, was driving home Wednesday afternoon, and when near the poor farm his team became frightened and ran away. The animals dashed along the road at a high rate of speed and when nearly opposite the poor farm collided with a telegraph qole. Mr. Branstrattor was thrown out and in the fall, had his nose broken and his head severely cut. He was unconscious when picked up, and was carried into Superintendent Felts' residence where he was attended by a doctor. He was taken to his home by his son Charles, later.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

BRAIN FOOD

Is of Little Benefit Unless It is Digested.

Nearly every one will admit that as a nation we eat too much meat and too little of vegetables and the grains.

For business men, office men and clerks, and in fact everyone engaged in sedentary or indoor occupations, grains, milk and vegetables are much more healthful.

Only men engaged in a severe out door manual labor can live on a heavy meat diet and continue in health.

As a general rule, meat once a day is sufficient for all classes of men, women and children, and grains, fruit and vegetables should constitute the bulk of food eaten.

But many of the most nutritious foods are difficult of digestion and it is of no use to advise brain workers to eat largely of grains and vegetables where the digestion is too weak too assimilate them properly.

It is always best to get the best results from our food that some simple and harmless digestive should be taken after meats to assist th[illegible] relaxed digestive organs, and [illegible]eral years experience have [illegible] Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to be [illegible] very safe, pleasant and eff[illegible]ctive [illegible]gestive and a remedy which [illegible] be taken daily with the best re[illegible]

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets ca[illegible] hardly be called a patent medic[illegible]e, as they do not act on the bowels nor any particular organ but only on the food eaten. They supply what weak stomachs lack, pepsin diastase and by stimulating the gastric glands increase the natural secretion of hydrochloric acid.

People who make a daily practice of taking one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal are sure to have perfect digestion, which means perfect health.

There is no danger of forming an injurious habit as the tablets contain absolutely nothing but natural digestivies; cocaine, morphine [illegible] similar drugs have no place [illegible] stomach medicine and Stuart[illegible] [illegible]pepsia Tablets are certainly t[illegible] known and most popular o[illegible] stomach remedies.

Ask your druggist for a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia T[illegible]blets and after a week's use note th[illegible] improvement in health, appetite and nervous energy.

WILL HUNT QUAIL.

Under the Indiana law the time for hunting quail commences tomorrow and the little fowls can be killed without interference from the law until January 1st. Already Fort Wayne hunters have brightened their guns, filled their shells and made preparations to go hunting and in the morning early hunters will be seen wending their way in all directions throughout the country. The hunters will have their troubles in some instances, notwithstanding the law permits the killing of the birds The farmers in many localities have formed organizations to protect the birds on their farms and this year the hunters will find more "Don't trespass" signs than heretofore. Quail are plentiful in some localities and there promises to be plenty of them on the market, but to the average lover of the toothsome little birds there is bigger enjoyment in hunting them than in eating them. For several days quail have been on sale at restaurants, but inquiry developed that the birds were purchased in either Ohio or Michigan, where the law goes into effect earlier than in Indiana.

JOHN'S FIRST WIFE.

BY

ZOE ANDERSON NORRIS

Copyright, 1899, by Zoe A. Norris.

The air was crisp outside, but the roomy kitchen was warm and sunny. Mingled with the grateful heat was the odor of sprinkled linen, steaming under the iron. Linen hung on clothes-horses and on the backs of chairs, and still the wicker basket underneath the ironing board groaned with sheets, pillowslips, tablecloths and napkins neatly piled in soft damp rolls.

Ann Quigley stood at the board ironing. As she ironed she chatted with her neighbor, Susan Stephens, who had come in with her knitting from across the way.

"You don't mind my going right along with my work, do you?" she asked. Susan shook her head, her lips being occupied with counting inarticulate stitches. "Today's Tuesday, you know, and the ironing's got to be finished. It goes against grain to leave it over till Wednesday, for Wednesdays I bake. Besides, I can work and talk at the same time."

She straightened out a sheet, tested an iron with the tip of a wet finger and passed it across, back and forth, this way and that, sidewise.

"You are a good housekeeper, Ann," said Susan admiringly. "You are given up to be the best housekeeper in this town. John Quigley got a prize when he got you. Everybody says so."

Ann stopped short, resting her hot iron on the sheet so long that when she suddenly remembered and took it off there was the print of it in a fine light brown.

"HE'LL NEVER FORGET HER, AND I CAN'T MAKE HIM."

19 ORIG. SHORT STORIES—1899

"See what you made me do!" she cried, and, snatching up the sheet she took a shining pail from a shelf, filled it at the sink and soused the linen into the water. "Maybe it will come out," she muttered, "but I don't know. I'm afraid not."

"I am awfully sorry!" apologized Susan contritely.

"Never mind. I'll leave it to soak. I guess it will come out." She folded another sheet across the board. "It was my fault," she said. "You surprised me so. And they talk like that, do they? I'm a good housekeeper and John got a prize when he got me, eh?"

"That's what they say!" asserted Susan.

Ann ironed awhile in silence.

"And they say you're a splendid cook, too," added Susan, anxious to atone for the scorched sheet.

Ann smiled, well pleased. Then she sighed

"It don't make much difference how good a housekeeper you are, Susan" she said reflectively, "or how good a cook. Things like that don't make a man care anything more for you He kinder expects it of you. All the cooking in the world won't keep a man from thinking about somebody else if he's a mind to. It won't make him forget."

"What do you mean?" asked Susan "You don't mean John?"

"Yes, John. Do you remember his first wife?"

"Umph, hum! But she wasn't a patching to you when it comes to housekeeping"

"Maybe not," mused Ann wistfully, "but there must have been something mighty lovable about her. She's been dead five years now this coming June, and John hasn't forgotten her yet. And what's more, I don't believe he ever will forget her."

She folded the sheet into squares, pressed it lovingly between her palms it was so clean and white and smooth and Ann's soul rejoiced in cleanliness and whiteness and smoothness and laid it on a chair. Then, taking a towel from the basket, she shook out the fringe and spread it on the board.

"She was a pretty woman," she continued, briskly ironing the bright red border, "and beauty goes a long way with a man. Nobody would ever accuse me of being pretty," she added, with a constrained laugh, and Susan looking up, was forced mentally to confess the truth of her remark. Her purple calico, starched and bristling with cleanliness, set off a fairly good figure, but aside from that little could be said in her favor.

"You've got pretty hair, Ann," she ventured encouragingly.

Ann sighed again "Yes, I've got pretty hair," she acknowledged, "but hair don't count much when your face is plain."

Her face was plain. There was no gainsaying it Its plainness was accentuated by the halo of reddish brown hair.

"Beauty ain't but skin deep," said Susan sententiously.

"Yes, but ugliness is to the bone," finished Ann.

There followed a period of energetic silence freighted with thought.

"John's first wife was pretty," repeated Ann by and by, "mighty pretty. She was young and fresh and bloomy, like a flower. She was one of them southern women what don't know any more about housekeeping than a fly, but they know how to make the men care for them, and that's half the battle. It's more than half. They say the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, but it ain't. It's through his eyes.

"You know I lived next door to them. I could see into her kitchen And of all the kitchens it was a sight! She hadn't any system about her work. She would put things away and spend half her time looking for them. And cook! She couldn't any more cook than she could fly to the moon She would have her potatoes mashed and ready for the table, a cooling off, and her chicken only half done. I don't believe she ever got everything done at once in her life. She couldn't cook, and she couldn't learn to cook. It wasn't in her."

She shrugged her shoulders, with a laugh

"It's the greatest wonder," she went on, "that John didn't get chronic dyspepsia eating the things she set before him But he didn't He seemed to thrive Whatever she cooked was good enough for him. He would come home early and help her, stewing over the stove, doing all kinds of woman's work, trying to make things easy for her. I've seen him run along the walk and up the steps three steps at a time he was so glad to get home, then work like a nigger when he got there."

She hung the towel on the back of a chair and shook out the fringe of another.

"He has never done a lick of work since we have been married," she said, her mouth twitching. "He has never had to help me in the kitchen or in the garden or even in the flower beds in the front yard, but he never comes hurrying home, he never runs up the steps three steps at a time, and he never smiles when he meets me at the door."

"Maybe he is worried about business," suggested Susan, measuring the thumb of the glove she was knitting by her own. "Men have lots of things to worry them that they don't tell their wives."

"No, it ain't that; it's remembering her. He can't forget her, and I can't make him forget her.

"Sometimes I wish I didn't live in the same house where they lived together. That makes it worse. There's the little front porch where they used to sit of evenings. When he and I sit there in the summer time and I see his eyes way off yonder, I know he's thinking of her."

She ironed slowly, staring through the window, her own eyes moist. "I know," she reiterated softly, "that he is thinking how he used to sit there with her, and he is wishing it was him and her again instead of him and me."

She took to ironing faster.

"I'll never forget the day she died," she continued. "She died three days after the baby was born. She never liked me somehow, but I didn't let that interfere with doing my neighborly duty by her I went over and helped take care of her.

"The baby was born dead, but she grieved after it the same as if it had been a living child. She would lie there staring up at the ceiling and grieving until it was pitiful to see her. I believe it was that that killed her. She didn't want to live and it dead. One day she made me bring out its little clothes and lay them on the bed all around her. She fingered the sleeves, the tears rolling down her cheeks. 'There'll never be any little arms in them,' she said and turned her face to the wall.

"I put the things back in the drawer where she couldn't see them any more

"That last day she was burning up with fever. Her little feet were hot as fire So were her hands. She talked flighty about the baby, about how she wanted to see it and they wouldn't let her. How could they and it dead? I sat on the edge of the bed, stroking her poor hot feet, when suddenly they began to get cold, and she stopped talking.

"I sent for John in a hurry. When he came, he was like a madman. He knelt down by her bed and begged her to listen to him. 'Don't go away without telling me goodby, sweetheart!' he said, a sobbing between the words. 'Don't leave me like this! Say goodby to me, sweetheart!'

"I put my hand on his shoulder. I wanted to tell him that she was past speaking, and past hearing for that matter, but he stared up at me as if he had never seen me before. 'Go away,' he said. 'Leave me alone with her, can't you? Go away!' And he gave me a push.

"I went out and shut the door."

She leaned her elbows on the board and looked hard at Susan, who had dropped her knitting in her lap.

"I think the only reason he married me," she said sadly, "was because I took good care of her. But sometimes I wish he hadn't. He'll never forget her, and I can't make him. I do everything I can to please him. I keep this place like wax from garret to cellar, but it might be helter skelter from one week's end to the other for all the notice he takes of it. I stand in this kitchen for hours cooking things to please him, and he hardly tastes them. He sits and stares across the table at me, and I know he doesn't see me. He sees her there opposite him in her old place that I have taken. The look in his eyes hurts me, Susan."

Susan heaved a sigh and again took up the glove. "Maybe you imagine it," she said.

Ann stood erect. She replaced the cold iron with a hot one.

"I wish I did," she said. "I only wish I did. I don't complain. You mustn't think that. He is kind to me. There couldn't be a kinder man, but kindness ain't all a woman wants. She wants a little love mixed up with it sometimes—just a little bit of love.

"Listen' Last night I was lying by his side wide awake and he asleep and dreaming. After awhile he threw his arm around my neck and kissed me in his sleep. 'Sweetheart,' he said, 'my sweetheart!' You'd have felt sorry for me then if you could have seen how still I lay, hardly daring to breathe for fear he would wake and find that it was me there by his side and not his 'sweetheart.'"

"Maybe he meant you," said Susan. "Don't he ever call you 'sweetheart?'"

"No, and he never called her anything else."

The basket was empty. Not a single towel, sheet, napkin or pillowslip remained to interfere with Ann's work on Wednesday—her baking day. She was ironing the last piece, a damask tablecloth, her best cloth, which she reserved for company. Traced upon it was a pattern of ivy leaves. Under the manipulation of her iron this pattern shone, raised into brilliancy by the heat and the pressure of her strong right hand.

A tear dropped. She quickly ironed it out and, passing her sleeve across her eyes, caught two other tears.

Then the slow, soft sweep of the iron over the steaming linen, back and forth, this way and that and sidewise, made rhythmical music in the silent room, while Susan's needles clicked in silent sympathy.

Fashions in Candy.

The confectionery trade is a trade of topsy turvydom. There is as much fashion in it as in the craft of evolving those creations of fallals, flowers and feathers whose ultimate destination is the adornment of ladies' heads. Time was when the hardpan goods were the one thing needful; these were ousted from public favor by the American invention of soft centered pan goods, jelly beans and so on. Jap nuggets had a reign, and a long one, and might fitly be styled the Victorian reign of this era, so far as candy is concerned. Hanky panky, slapjack and a thousand others of like kind had a brief popularity, to give way, in turn, to some other cunning form of candy weaving. It is to this ever changing fancy that the candy trade owes its vitality, and so long as there are inventive brains ready to devise new forms, so long will the trade be prosperous.—Exchange.

THERE is a certain stylish effect about garments made from these Celebrated Patterns that is not attained by the use of any other patterns.

SHOP AND RAIL.

JOHN KELKER VISITS OLD-TIME FRIENDS.

LIVED HERE MANY YEARS AGO

AND RAN AN ENGINE ON THE PITTSBURG.

FITTING UP BRASS FOUNDRY

TWO SMALL FURNACES PUT IN OPERATION.

John Kelker, of Pueblo, Col., is visiting his brothers, Anthony and Samuel Kelker, and circulating among old friends. Mr. Kelker is master mechanic of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, a position he has filled for many years. He has been at Dunkirk, N. Y., for several weeks, inspecting some engines that are being built by the Brooks Locomotive works for his company, and stopped off here a few days en route to his home. Prior to 1863, Mr. Kelker was employed as an engineer on the Pittsburg road and was one of the best known railroad men in this section of the country. In that year he went west and shortly afterward became an employe of the company which he is now serving in the capacity of master mechanic. Mr. Kelker says he finds a few of his old associates here, but the vast majority of them are either dead or have moved to other cities. He will remain here until next Sunday. It is now twenty-two years since Mr. Kelker visited Fort Wayne the last time and he had not seen his brothers, Tony and Sam, in all that time.

ANOTHER VISITOR.

Dr. J. M. Kells, of Columbus, O., spent the forenoon here with his old railway friends. Dr. Kells is en route home from Chicago, where he witnessed the departure of Mrs. Kells and her mother upon a tour of the Pacific states. The ladies expect to be absent about two months. Dr. Kells is the medical examiner for the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association, an office he held in this city several years prior to the administration of Dr. E. F. Wagner. Charlie Kells, a son of the doctor, accompanies his father on the visit.

THE YORK DAMAGE SUIT.

The York damage suit, which comes up for trial at Plymouth next Monday, will be bitterly contested and will be watched with interest by all railway men familiar with the case. York was a fireman on the Nickel Plate, and while "putting in a fire" one of the boiler flues exploded and the force of the steam carried the fireman out through the gangway and dropped him upon the ground. His injuries were such that he died in a few days after the accident. His wife now brings suit for $5,000. The accident happened near Burkett, Ind., February 20, 1899. T. E. Short was the engineer at the throttle. He, as well as a number of other engineers and mechanics from this city and Stony Island will appear as witnesses in the case.

CRAZY MAN ON A TRAIN.

A special dispatch to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat tells the following interesting story: "The conductor and brakeman of a Wabash freight train had an exciting adventure last night with a wild man named Samuel Shafer, who insisted on boarding the train at Lagro to ride twelve miles to Huntington. He was delirious from drink and when pushed off his shoulder blade was broken; he again boarded the caboose, drove the conductor to the front and the brakeman to the rear platform. They locked the doors and were in mortal fear he would break them down and kill them, as he threatened. As the train rushed through Andrews the conductor threw a message off asking the marshal at Huntington to meet the train and arrest a lunatic. The Andrews operator sent the dispatch and an officer captured Shafer, who was locked up."

RENEWING A BRIDGE.

The Illinois Central yesterday began important work at Dubuque, Iowa, chief of which is the renewal of the structural part of the bridge spanning the river at that point. Over 100 men are at work upon the bridge and their task will consume the entire winter. The reconstruction work will be accomplished so as to not interfere with traffic. The new bridge will cost about $250,000.

W. J. Hemphill, master mechanic of the St. Louis, Peoria and Northern, has been appointed division master mechanic for the eastern division of the Chicago and Alton, with headquarters at Bloomington.

The railways running into East St. Louis have agreed to erect a relay depot at that point and have so notified the Illinois State Railroad and Warehouse commission, which held a meeting in Springfield yesterday.

SHOPMEN HURT.

James A. Wise and William Wartenbee, the latter of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, and the former of the tank shop, are off duty on account of accidents that happened to them yesterday. While lifting a bumper beam, Mr. Wise slipped and severely sprained his back. Mr. Wartenbee received his injuries on Holman street, where a bicyclist ran against and knocked him over. One side of his face was cut and bruised by coming in contact with the brick pavement and his right side and hip were also bruised most painfully.

NEW BRASS SHOP.

The Pennsylvania company has fitted up a small brass foundry adjacent to the machine shop for the manufacture of rocker arm boxings and hub liners, pieces used on engines. Two furnaces have been set up by the side of the big smoke stack at the boiler room, west of the machine shop, and a small enclosure made, in which is a bench and accommodations for three or four men, if that many are needed. In a small way this little shop will take the place of the more extensive one recently moved to Allegheny and enlarged. All the larger and most important brasses used in the shops in this city are now made at Allegheny.

HONORED AN OLD COMRADE.

The employes of the Wabash blacksmith shop paid their respects to their former foreman and old friend last night. With James Houlihan as their spokesman, a number of the men repaired to the residence of Daniel Campbell, where they presented him with a handsome and costly watch chain, charm and scarf pin. The latter was emblematic of the Odd Fellows, an order in which Mr. Campbell is a prominent participant. Mr. Campbell responded in his characteristic manner to the presentation speech, inviting his callers to make "themselves at home," an invitation they were not slow in accepting. After a very pleasant hour spent in social chat, in which "old times" was an interesting subject, Mrs. Campbell served lunch and shortly afterwards the men left for their homes. Mr. Campbell was foreman of the Wabash blacksmith shop for a quarter of a century and he was held in the highest esteem by the men who worked there. Failing health compelled him to relinquish the office several month ago, and since that time he has not been engaged at any work. His health has improved, however, and he has now under consideration two offers of lucrative positions, one from the Grand Trunk, and he may decide to accept one of them.

RAILROADING IN THE FIFTIES.

The railroader of today is disposed to complain of his lot sometimes and to imagine that his duties are more arduous and dangerous now than were the duties of the men engaged in the same work some years ago. But with the single exception of the fireman on one of the big moguls, the trainman's work of today is a "snap" in comparison with the work of the railroader of half a century ago. The following account of an accident, which illustrates the hardships of pioneer railroading, is taken from a copy of the Fort Wayne Sentinel, dated January 26, 1856, nearly forty-four years ago: "The passenger train which left Toledo yesterday morning at half-past 2 o'clock did not reach this city until half-past 7 o'clock last evening, having been seventeen hours making the passage that should have been made in five hours. While in the forest the water pipes leading from the tank to the boiler froze and burst, rendering the engine useless, except so far as the water already in the boiler was of service. The engineer detached his engine and started for the nearest station for help, but had only gone a short distance before he ran into a snow-drift without the possibility of extricating himself. The train was left in the woods, three or four miles from any dwelling. Many of the passengers were women and children and the intense cold occasioned much suffering among them, several of them suffering frozen feet and hands. The fireman on the engine, after it had become fastened in the snow-drift, had both feet frozen and the engineer and two other persons carried him on their backs to the nearest house, the poor fellow suffering intensely meanwhile. An engine was finally secured and dispatched to the rescue, bringing the train and its suffering occupants through to this city. The passengers have terrible stories concerning the trip to relate."

PLACING DYNAMOS.

The Pennsylvania company has commenced to place some of the machinery in its new electric light power station. A 40-light machine, built by the Fort Wayne Electric works, was taken to the station this morning.

WORK FOR FORT WAYNE MEN.

As soon as navigation closes on Lake Erie, the boats owned by the Wabash company will be thoroughly overhauled and the work will be under the supervision of Master Mechanic McKee and performed by Fort Wayne workmen. The boiler work will be particularly heavy and will furnish employment to several men a good portion of the winter. G. G. Nickol, foreman of the Wabash boiler department, will have charge of it. All the work that must be done in the shops will be brought here, but a good portion of it must be performed on the boats.

The Fort Wayne Electric company this morning shipped another car load of new style Wood arc lamps to Chicago, where the company has a contract for putting up 1,000.

The local railway agents have been notified of the lifting of the yellow fever quarantine in the south and tickets to all points are again on sale. Local agents have also been informed that reduced rates on all one way colonists' second class tickets will be withdrawn on the 15th inst.

Frank Opatz, the well known blacksmith in the Pittsburg shops, was summoned to Indianapolis last night by a telegram informing him of the serious illness of his wife. Mrs. Opatz went to Indianapolis several days ago to visit relatives and her husband did not know she was sick until he was summoned to her bedside.

Foreman George W. Smith, of the Wabash machine shop, has won the everlasting good will of the apprentice boys in that establishment by issuing an order releasing them from duty at 5 o'clock in the evening. The boys were formerly compelled to work so late that they could not pay due attention to their sweethearts and the "girls" registered a kick at the shop.

James Hamilton, the Nickel Plate brakeman, who never handled a more formidable weapon than the toy pistol, has, through his association with the "mighty" hunters to be found in the ranks of the Nickel Plate trainmen, become so imbued with the spirit of Nimrod that he has been induced to invest in an elaborate shooting outfit and will spend a portion of the hunting season in the field and forest. He has taken a lay-off in order to participate in the hunt before the brids have been killed or driven out of the country.

Only Two Ways of Making Soap.

One From the Fresh Green Leaves of the Tasmanian Blue Gum Tree.

All the Rest From Grease, Fats or Oils, Combined With an Alkali.

THE NEW SOAP.

A Perfect Skin Healer and a Delightful Refreshing Toilet Article.

NO OTHER LIKE IT.

The first skin and toilet soap ever manufactured by the new process is proving a revelation to soap users. This is not surprising when you remember that heretofore it has been thought impossible to make soap of any kind without fats, grease, oil and alkali. These ingredients have been the base of all soaps from time immemorial, and have been collected by street scavengers, or purchased from incinerating plants which burn the refuse of our cities; not an agreeable thing to think of, but nevertheless true. To be sure many of these are nicely perfumed and no doubt made as pure as possible; but if the alkali is strong enough to kill the grease and oil, it destroys and hardens the skin; if the reverse, the pores of the skin become clogged and disease follows. ALL THE MEDICATION in the world cannot prevent it—what a delightful change then to have a soap free from these ingredients and made from the fragrant, green leaves of the Tasmanian Blue Gum Tree, these leaves being acknowledged by the medical profession as the most harmless, as well as the most powerful germ destroyer and skin purifier known.

A bath with Hyomei Skin Soap is simply delightful. It leaves the skin soft, cool and refreshed imparting to it the peach-like bloom of health.

It is guaranteed to cure all diseases of the skin. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail, price 25 cents.

Unmatchable Prices.

Why? Can't buy these suits from manufacturers today for less than 30 per cent advance over the price we paid for them three months ago.

A few facts and figures to put in your book:

Advances since March 1st, 1899: Lumber, 110 per cent, pig iron, 125 per cent; steel wire, 145 per cent; castors, 55 per cent, and so on.

We anticipated the tremendous rise in prices and therefore bought early and very heavy. Our floors are groaning under the immense weight. If you are not a customer of ours we would ask you to examine these goods and above all—THE PRICES—and see whether we cannot save you money. Personally, WE know that we CAN, but we're not satisfied with that—we want YOU to feel POSITIVELY SURE that you save money when you purchase of us.

CHILDREN ARE VACCINATING.

The quarantine established by the board of health at the Axt home is being more rigidly enforced as each day passes and more care in taken now to keep people from exposing themselves than on the first day it was known there was a case of small pox in the city. Dr. Lomas stays with the Axt family and reports that there doesn't appear to be any perceptible change in the condition of Mrs. Axt. There have been no other cases reported and no persons known to the board of health have symptoms of the disease. Children are being vaccinated by the hundreds every day and the physicians believe that even should there not be another case reported, much good has been done by forcing vaccination. At St. Paul's school 279 scholars were vaccinated this morning by Drs. Duemling, Schick and Crull. After school hours each day every doctor's office is crowded with children and at the board of health office this morning Drs. Miller, Kesler and Drayer were vaccinating children whose parents were unable to bear the expense. The scare has done much to affect business of local merchants, as very few people outside the city come here to purchase. The papers in neighboring cities report numerous cases, while, as a fact, there has only been one case. It will be ten days before the board of health satisfies itself that there will be no epidemic, even should there not be another case reported.

OBITUARY.

Sarah Elizabeth Ensley was born August 2, 1841, in DeKalb county, Ind., and died after a lingering illness November 5, 1899, at her home in Washington township, Allen county. She was married to Andrew Wagaman July 4, 1878. No children were born to them, but Mrs. Wagaman took a little girl and reared her as her own, so that the bereaved husband's grief is sincerely shared by Mrs. McKinley as a daughter. Two sisters also survive—Mrs. Susan DeWinner, of Chicago, and Mrs. Cornelia A. DeLaney, of Crystal Falls, Mich. Mrs. DeLaney was present at the funeral. A large concourse of neighbors and friends gathered at the family home in Washington township Wednesday afternoon, when appropriate services were conducted by Rev. Sherman Powell, of Trinity M. E. church. Mrs. Wagaman had made her peace with God through belief in Jesus, and left assurance that all was well. The interment occurred at the Hatfield cemetery.

HOLD ANNUAL ELECTION.

The annual meeting of the members of the Hope hospital association will be held this evening at the hospital for the purpose of hearing reports and electing a board of directors composed of ten members. The newly elected board will meet later, and from its own number select the officers of the association. Affairs at the institution are in a most satisfactory condition, and the year has been a prosperous one.

HOME COTERIE MEETS.

The Home Coterie, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., will hold a meeting at Westminster church on Friday evening, beginning at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Ainslie will conduct the devotional exercises, and the address of the evening will be given by Hon. T. E. Ellison. His subject is: "Our Toiling Children."

THE HERO IS WED.

ADMIRAL DEWEY LEADS MRS. HAZEN TO THE ALTAR.

MARRIED IN WASHINGTON

THE AFFAIR IS VERY QUIET AND SIMPLE.

FATHER MACKIN OFFICIATED

MR. AND MRS. DEWEY GO TO NEW YORK.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Admiral George Dewey and Mrs. Mildred M. Hazen were married quietly at the rectory of St. Paul's Catholic church in V street, near Fifteenth, this city, shortly before 10 o'clock this morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James F. Mackin, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Joseph H. Foley, assistant pastor, and Rev. Sidney Hurlbut.

The ceremony was of the simplest character, according to the rites of the Catholic church, and the only witnesses besides the officiating clergymen were Mrs. Washington McLean and Mrs. Ludlow, wife of Admiral Ludlow, mother and sister, respectively, of the bride, and Lieutenant Caldwell, Admiral Dewey's secretary.

The arrangements for the wedding were made with all the secrecy which has attended the whole affair. After procuring the license for the wedding yesterday Lieutenant Caldwell called upon Father Mackin, of St. Paul's, of which church Mrs. Hazen is a communicant, and arranged for the wedding this morning.

A SPECIAL DISPENSATION.

As Admiral Dewey is not a Catholic, a special dispensation was required for the performance of the ceremony, and this was procured by Father Mackin from Bishop Curtis, vicar general of the diocese of Baltimore, who granted it in the absence of Cardinal Gibbons, who is at present in New Orleans.

Father Mackin went to Baltimore for this purpose yesterday afternoon. At 9:45 this morning two carriages containing the wedding party drew up before the modest red brick rectory in the rear of St. Paul's. The general public had no intimation of where the ceremony was to take place, and not a single spectator was present as the party alighted.

THE BRIDE'S GOWN.

Mrs. Hazen was gowned in a pearl gray silk over which she wore a long stylish black wrap trimmed with silver fox and lined with lavender silk.

The admiral wore a black frock coat, gray trousers and a silk hat.

Upon entering the rectory they were ushered into the reception room where Admiral Dewey was presented to Father Mackin and the two clergymen who were to assist in the ceremony.

Upon being presented to Father Mackin the admiral said that he had heard that Father Mackin had in his early years been a sailor and it gave him additional happiness to know that he was to be married by a clergyman who had at one time followed the sea. Father Mackin replied happily that when he found he could not become an admiral he had determined to become a priest. Mrs. Hazen removed her wrap and she and the admiral immediately took their places in the center of the little reception room where the ceremony was performed which made them man and wife. Father Mackin and his assistants wore simple black cassocks.

PRELATE'S SOLEMN WORDS.

Before the ceremony Father Mackin addressed the the contracting parties as follows:

"Before performing the solemn words which will bind you forever together, it may be well to forget for a moment the things that are around us and look upward. We are the children of God, and we have a right to call upon Him in joy and in sorrow. We need His help in both extremes and never more than now, for although the promises you are about to make are easily made and the words spoken in a moment, their fulfillment is the work of a life time. We call upon God to witness and to bless this union of which He is the author and which He has made sacred. No matter how generous and devoted you may be to each other, there are in every life moments of trial when we, in our weakness, need the help that comes from above, and this help will be given in its fulness in return for the faithful fulfillment of our obligations. The higher your position in life the more incumbent it is upon you for faithful fulfillment of your obligation and the more rigorous the accounts that will be exacted. The neglect of these obligations will cast its shadows upon eternity. But this hour we hope marks the beginning of a career which will make you wiser, better and more useful to your fellow creatures in this life and the life beyond it, and when death at last shall break the link which binds you, as death alone can break it, may that last hour find the two hands as fondly clasped and the two hearts as closely joined as they are today, and may the joys of this life be a foretaste of the joys that are to come."

A RING CEREMONY.

The ceremony was performed with the ring, according to the nuptial rites of the Catholic church.

Including the address of Father Mackin, it consumed less than five minutes. Father Mackin was the first to hail the bride as Mrs. Dewey.

Congratulations and felicitations followed and the wedding party drove directly from the rectory to the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. McLean, where a wedding breakfast was served.

Father Mackin, who performed the ceremony, when a lad of seventeen, ran away from home with two other boys and went to sea. Father Mackin's sea career, however, was very brief. He said that he found that he was unfitted for the life of a sailor and a few months found him back at his books.

THE WEDDING BREAKFAST.

After arriving at the McLean residence Admiral Dewey was driven to his own house. There he changed his costume for a traveling suit, returning to the McLean residence on foot. The wedding breakfast lasted an hour. There were present only the bride and groom, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Ludlow, Lieutenant Caldwell and Mr. Fred Bugher. The table was elaborately decorated with bride's roses.

About 12:20 the admiral and Mrs. Dewey left the McLean residence for the Pennsylvania depot. Mrs. Dewey had changed her gown in which she was married for a black traveling suit. Less than a dozen people had congregated at the depot and there was no demonstration as they passed hurriedly through the station to the train. Secretary Root boarded the train just before it pulled out and offered his congratulations in person.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

STITES.

Harvey Stites died at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at his home, 153 Montgomery street. One week ago Mr. Stites was stricken with paralysis, and while his illness was recognized as critical from the first, he had during the past few days shown signs of improvement. Wednesday morning, however, unfavorable symptoms reappeared, and he failed rapidly. Mr. Stites was among the well known young men of the city, and was owner of the cigar store and barber shop at Calhoun and Wayne streets. He was born at Churubusco, and came to Fort Wayne six years ago. Two years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Lillie Barner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Barner, of Montgomery street, who survives him. Mr. Stites was twenty-four years of age, and by his genial, cheerful disposition had made many friends.

The funeral services will be held at the residence Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock and at 10 o'clock the cortege will start for the Eel River cemetery, where the interment will occur.

FUNERAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Betzler.—Funeral services of Mrs. Cressentia Betzler will be held Saturday morning at 8:30 from the residence, 17 West Wayne street, and at 9 o'clock from the St. Paul's Catholic church.

Motsch.—Funeral services of Jacob F. Motsch will be held from the residence, 82 Organ avenue, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Wagenhals officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Moriarty pleasantly entertained a number of friends at their home on South Calhoun street last evening. About twenty guests were present and the evening was pleasantly spent with music, conversation and dancing. An elegant luncheon was served at 12.

Louis Fox has returned from a business trip to Rome City.

STATE IN DISPUTE

BOTH PARTIES STILL CLAIM KENTUCKY.

EACH SIDE IS CRYING FRAUD

BLACKBURN ASSERTS 4,000 PLURALITY.

REPUBLICANS CLAIM 7,000

MAY REQUIRE OFFICIAL VOTE TO SETTLE IT.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9.—10 a. m.—As the returns and corrected reports from the belated counties come in the situation in Kentucky is changed and both democrats and republicans are claiming the election this morning, the former by a plurality of 3,000 and the republicans by 7,000.

Charges of attempted fraud are being made by both parties and especially so at the republican headquarters in this city.

Senator Deboe and several prominent republicans were at the headquarters at an early hour this morning. They have received returns from every county in the state and say Taylor's majority will not fall below 5,000, and that late and official reports from many counties from which they have had unofficial figures have increased Taylor's majority.

Private advices from ex-Senator Blackburn, at Frankfort, are of an encouraging nature to democrats for they say Goebel has carried the state by 4,000 plurality, and that the figures when they are completed, will show his election and the election of the democratic ticket by that plurality.

It will take the official count to decide the question and there are already many contests in sight.

DON'T CROSS YOUR LEGS.

It was recently announced by a well known medical man that the reason men suffer so much from dyspepsia is because the stomach is crowded out of position and cannot readily perform its proper functions. Now comes a surgeon, who puts forward the suggestion that appendicitis is common because of the habit of sitting with one leg thrown over the other.

Many causes have been quoted for appendicitis, but none have satisfactorily explained why men should more frequently suffer from the disease than women. "The habit of sitting with the legs crossed," says the surgeon, "restricts the action of the digestive apparatus, especially of the lower intestine, and causes stagnation of the contents and the stretching of the opening of the vermiform appendix, making it possible for obstructions to reach the latter organ and thus causing appendicitis. The appendix is only loosely attached to the cæcum, the portion where the small intestine joins the large intestine, and there is always some half-digested food in the cæcal bag. By crossing the legs, and it is generally the right leg that is put upon the stretch, the undigested food passes into the vermiform appendix and sets up an inflammation. In the space of a few hours pathological processes set in and an attack of appendicitis has been developed."

Rev. Robert MacDonald, of Washington avenue Baptist church, Brooklyn, is to be one of the preachers at Harvard university this year.

TRANSFER IS MADE

OF LOCAL STREET RAILWAY

DEED FILED IN COURT AND APPROVED BY JUDGE.

BIG MORTGAGE IS RECORDED

The Fort Wayne Consolidated street railway is no more.

At a late hour Wednesday afternoon the details for the transfer of the street railway and all its grounds, buildings, franchises and appurtenances to the Fort Wayne Traction company were completed and Co-Receiver H. C. Rockhill filed the deed with Judge O'Rourke and the sale was immediately approved. On the deed were revenue stamps which cost $1,092. Immediately on the approval of the deed of sale the street railway passed out of the control of the receivers and into the hands of the new company and hereafter the management is not responsible to the court for any of its business transactions. For the court the deeds were signed by J. H. Bass, receiver, and H. C. Rockhill, co-receiver, and for the company the signers were Vice-President E. H. Bourne and Secretary H. E. Gresham.

At the same time the deed was presented to the court a big mortgage was filed in the recorder's office. The mortgage is given to the Guardian Trust company. The bonded indebtedness is fixed at $1,500,000, issued in 1,500 bonds of $1,000 each. These bonds bear 4 per cent. interest.

Judge O'Rourke allowed John H. Bass $10,000 as receiver; H. C. Rockhill, $2,000 as co-receiver, and Barrett & Morris, $5,135.20 for attorneys' fees and expenses.

The directors of the company left for Cleveland on the 8:20 Nickel Plate train last evening. There was no announced change in policy and the road will continue to be operated for the next few weeks as it has been during the regime of the receiver. The directors may make improvements, but this matter must be determined after they have studied the real necessities of the system.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Wheat, influenced by lower Liverpool cables, opened unchanged today with a tendency toward weakness. December wheat opened 68⅜@68¼c and sold off to 67⅞c, reacting on buying against puts and some covering by shorts, touched 68⅛c. The initial price for the May option was 72⅛c. It eased off to 71⅞c and then reacted to 72c. Business was largely of a scalping nature and the fluctuations narrow. The weather was generally reported seasonable. Michigan and Ohio reported some injuries from insects. Receipts were small. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 714 cars, as compared with 608 last week and 1,025 a year ago. Local receipts were below the estimate, 55 cars, 10 of which were of graded contract. The foreign demand was reported slack.

Corn responded to the weakness in cables and wheat, opening a shade under yesterday's close. Country selling was light, and the market soon improved. December opened at 31⅛c and sold at 31⅜@31¼c. May opened at 32⅝@32½c and advanced to 32⅝c.

Price Current put the yield at 2,207,437,000 bushels, compared with last year's 1,868,120,000 bushels. Receipts here were 180 cars.

There was almost no business in oats. December opened a shade higher at 22½c and sold at 22⅜@22½c. May opened 23⅜c and declined to 22¾c. The weakness in other grain markets was felt. Local receipts were 169 cars.

Provisions were firm but not active, showing an upward tendency with higher hog prices.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Nov. 9.—Quotations from London showed higher prices there, and the market here responded at the opening. There was a fair sprinkling of losses among prominent stocks. Leather, after rising a fraction, dropped 4¼. Manhattan, after declining 1½, rallied ⅝.

A heavy selling movement developed which affected everything in the list. Manhattan, Sugar and Tobacco were the main points of weakness, but other specialties, the Grangers and Southwestern stocks also suffered severely. Large blocks of various stocks were unloaded on very animated dealings. Leather was less active, but nevertheless broke below 23. The bond market ruled easier in sympathy.

Pressure against the high-priced specialties was invited by the drop in Leather to 25½. Although Sugar, Tobacco, Smelting, American Ice, Third Avenue, Metropolitan Street Railway and Standard Rope responded 1½, there were a few stocks which advanced strongly, particularly Steel Hoop and Steel and Wire.

There was not much doing in railways, which eased off in spots.

Covering in Manhattan, Sugar and Leather turned the general trend of prices upward, but the recoveries were not important as a rule. Leather dipped again to 24⅞ near 11 o'clock and the list sympathized slightly.

Prices receded again, Sugar dipping to 153¾. The market then hardened on light trading. The Iron and Steel stocks were more resilient than the general list. The closing was dull and easy at net declines throughout.

BRITAIN'S POLICY TOWARD HOSTILE REPUBLICS.

CONVENTION IS ABROGATED

TRANSVAAL NOW HELD PART OF QUEEN'S DOMAIN.

SAME OF ORANGE FREE STATE

NO STARTLING WAR NEWS IS COMING OUT.

London, Nov. 9.—The absence of stirring war news and the rehabilitation in the estimation of the British public of General White, who, since his reverse at Nicholson's Nek certainly appears to have used his central position to successfully strike at different points of the circle of investment, thus restoring confidence in his ability to hold the Boers in check, has permitted public attention to momentarily revert to the political features of South Africa, and conflict is confidently predicted in some quarters.

Lord Salisbury, at the lord mayor's banquet tonight, will outline the government's policy in regard to the future government of the Transvaal and Orange Free State, and explain that the references in the queen's speech to "Military operations" (not "war"), and restoring peace and good government to "that portion of my empire" meant nothing more or less than that, in the opinion of the government, President Kruger, by making war on the queen, destroyed all claims to independence granted by the conventions of 1881 and 1884, and, consequently, the country had reverted to its previous status and is, theoretically, part of the queen's dominions.

As The Associated Press pointed out at the time, the phraseology of the queen's speech could not be otherwise explained than that at the time of the speech the republics of South Africa had already ceased to exist as separate nations, but if Lord Salisbury is prepared, at this early stage of the operations, to definitely announce his policy of the future, when, apparently, so many problems remain to be solved, both during and after the war, he must have already reached more definite understandings with several of the powers than the public is aware of.

The premier's speech, therefore, is awaited with unusual interest, and it seems certain that he will at least be able to announce that the talk of European intervention is groundless.

Beyond the crop of ever-recurring rumors, mostly without foundation, there is little news from the front. An official dispatch from General Buller shows Ladysmith was still in fighting trim Sunday and anticipating a recommencement of the bombardment Monday.

There is nothing, apparently, to justify the triumphant utterances in the British press. While it is admitted there is room for congratulation, there is, it is added, also room for grave fear. The announcement yesterday that 3,000 Boers, with big guns, had left Pretoria on their way to the southern border is said to be merely a ruse to hide the real destination of this force, which, it is believed, is Ladysmith.

Mrs. W. S. Cutshall, of 34 East Williams street, left today for Dayton to visit with Mrs. George H. Judy, of that city.

Mrs. A. T. Whitehead, of South Calhoun street, was coming out of the Fruit House this morning, when one of the heavy doors slammed to. Her right hand was caught between the door and the frame, and the end of the thumb was cut off as cleanly as though done with a knife. The injured member was dressed by Dr. Nieschang.

Hunted Stag Swam Two Miles.

A stag, hard pressed at a run of the Devon and Somerset staghounds in the Quantock country, England, took to the Bristol channel, and was followed, despite the warning notes of the huntsmen, by the whole pack of hounds. The stag swam out fully two miles from shore, completely outdistancing his pursuers, who were picked up by a boat about three-quarters of a mile out. One of the hounds was dead and the others were in an exhausted condition, while the stag died after being rescued.

PALE WOMEN

A Bloodless Face Indicates Trouble.

Watery Blood a Menace to Health.

WE KNOW HOW PALE PEOPLE CAN GET RICH RED BLOOD.

COME AND LET US TELL YOU ABOUT VINOL.

When blood is watery and thin, or, as doctors would say, lacks red blood corpuscles, it is a sign that much is radically wrong.

We would advise everyone who has such symptoms to start at once to take a proper remedy to overcome this trouble.

That remedy is Vinol, the greatest and most modern tonic and rebuilder.

Vinol owes its virtue to the fact that it contains in a highly concentrated state the active curative principles extracted from cods' livers, the same elements that have made cod-liver oil famous for wasting diseases.

These medicinal elements are dissolved in a delicious table wine so that Vinol is most palatable.

None of the vile-smelling obnoxious grease that characterizes cod-liver oil and frequently makes it an impossible remedy for those who should take it, is found in Vinol.

We could relate many instances where Vinol has done good and restored the roses of health to the pale cheeks of the sufferer.

The following is a fair sample of the way people write in regard to Vinol:

"For several months I suffered lassitude and tired all the time. Also a sinking feeling in my stomach, which nothing would relieve, and I was pale and weak. As an experiment I tried Vinol and if I wrote pages I could not tell all it has done for me."—Mrs. A. K. La Puesch, Amesbury, Mass.

Because we know Vinol so well, and because we know so surely what it will do, and how it will accomplish the good it does in a scientific way, we unreservedly endorse and recommend it, and in every instance guarantee to refund to any one what they pay us for Vinol if they do not find it entirely satisfactory.

He was unconscious when picked up, and was carried into Superintendent Felts' residence where he was attended by a doctor. He was taken to his home by his son Charles, later.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

And Mark Hanna is obliged to go away from home for consolation.

After all no one has yet beaten General Aguinaldo running for an office.

Now, if Mayor Jones expects to keep it up, it will be necessary to organize his following into a nonpartisan party.

Kentucky did her voting for governor Tuesday, but the election will be held later on by the enfranchisement of shotguns and Winchesters.

Dickie Croker does not discern a democratic victory anywhere worth noting save in the Nineteenth assembly district in New York city, where his tormentor, Robert Mazet, was snowed under.

Again Admiral Dewey illustrates that it is better to be early always than late. He has procured his marriage license a week or two before he needs it.

Charles Dewey, of Montpelier, Vt., brother of the admiral, has positively declined to be a candidate on the republican ticket or any other for governor of Vermont next year. Everybody was willing to support him heartily, but his ambition does not run toward politics.

News comes from Paris that in the absence of Dreyfus duels, royalist trials and similar thrills, the populace is greatly excited over the electric signs now appearing, apparently for the first time, in the streets of the fin de siecle city. The boulevards are crowded by people who stand and gaze at the illumination in wonder. It is to be expected that the native Parisian should be pleased with a trifle, but it's curious that he doesn't find one that is newer. The date of the first use of electric signs in this country is lost in antiquity.

After the exciting opening of the campaign in South Africa, we shall probably have to wait some time for any really significant news. General White is closely invested at Ladysmith, but he seems to have plenty of courage and energy and to be in no immediate danger of being forced out of his position. The Boers, meanwhile, are occupying various points to the south of Ladysmith, and also along the northern frontier of Cape Colony and are similarly extending their lines in the field of operations on the west. But communication is so imperfect that little is actually known of the strength of the various detachments or of the importance of these movements with reference to the coming campaign. They will of course compel General Buller to lay his plans with comprehensive care and probably to employ a larger army than was at first supposed necessary. As yet it is not known what these plans are, and speculation must be useless before the British campaign has actually been opened.

DEVISING A PRACTICAL PLAN.

While contemplating the election returns from the various states it may be well to give a thought to the seventh National Conference for Good City Government and the fifth annual meeting of the National Municipal league, to be held jointly at Columbus, Ohio, November 15, 16 and 17. The important business of the session will be the consideration and adoption of the "municipal program." This is "simply the embodiment of the essential principles which must underlie successful municipal government into a practical plan for carrying them into effect in the conduct of American cities." The value of such a program is self-apparent.

The National Municipal league and its branches have already done a great work in arousing civic pride, or popular interest. The purpose is to secure, through business administration, the greatest possible benefits from municipal taxation to stop the leaks to political beneficiaries and divert the full revenues to the public welfare. In no instance has any municipal league obtained political control of a city government, but in many cases league influence has been felt to a degree that has forced dominant political powers to adopt better methods.

The local municipal leagues are usually able to elect a few councilmen independently, or to compass the nomination and election of a few party men pledged to reform principles. Even such a minority is a potent power for good. Two or three men properly informed and thoroughly alert can, at the least, expose flagrant jobbery and point out better methods. Backed by an active public sentiment they can occasionally defeat vicious measures, or more frequently modify them in the public interest. The Columbus meeting will aim to devise more effective means for securing results, and its sessions will be worthy of careful attention.

OFFICERS OF VOLUNTEERS

ADJUTANT SHIPWAY AND WIFE ARE COMING.

Commandant of Grand Rapids Post of the Volunteers of America to Speak Here.

Adjutant J. W. Shipway and his wife, Mrs. Adjutant Shipway, of Grand Rapids, will be in Fort Wayne Saturday of this week and a part of next week, under the auspices of the Volunteers of America, in which both are officers. Adjutant Shipway is battalion commander and an experienced and well known worker in the Salvation Army and later in the Volunteers.

Saturday evening Adjutant and Mrs. Shipway will speak at the armory of the local post, in the Ninde block, 50 Harrison street. Sunday morning they will be heard at the Berry street M. E. church and Sunday evening at the Baptist tabernacle. Monday evening they will again be at the Berry street M. E. church.

Adjutant W. J. Shipway, the commander of the Volunteers of America, is also a veteran of the army. In early life he chose for himself the theatrical profession, running away from home at the tender age of twelve to join a traveling show. He soon rose to a position of prominence as an actor and played star parts in "Lost and Found," "The Sights of London" and "The Orphans." He was associated in several of these plays with Mary Anderson, Lillian Russell, Lilly Langtry, Will Scanlon, Sir Augustus Harris, Henry Irving and many other theatrical stars. While playing in the Surrey theater, London, he became converted by the Salvation Army and served with distinction in their service for nearly twenty years, bearing missions of responsibility and circumnavigating the globe three times in his travels. On the formation of the Volunteers of America, Adjutant Shipway joined the ranks of that organization and has been a courageous soldier ever since. He has under him at the Grand Rapids post six officers and thirty-six privates, besides sixteen recruits.

CARE OF THE FEET.

How to Prevent Corns, Bunions, Chilblains and Other Ills.

We are perhaps somewhat given to neglect of our feet, and yet a beautiful, small and shapely foot is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

As a preventive of corns, bunions and swollen feet, which in nine cases out of ten are the result of wearing boots either too tight or too loose, the feet should be bathed daily. To add a little alum or vinegar to the water is an excellent plan. At night the feet should be sponged with vinegar or lavender water, which will tend to keep them small and to prevent corns.

Those who suffer from weak ankles will derive great benefit from bathing them in sea salt and water. The feet should always be wiped thoroughly dry. And, where one suffers from cold feet, plenty of friction with a rough towel is most desirable.

The toe nails should be just as accurately and carefully trimmed as those of the fingers. Cut to correspond with the shape of the toe tips, whatever that may be. The wearing of narrow boots deforms the toes, crushing and crowding them up one against the other. One's boots should always be broad enough to obviate this, and a new pair should be at least a quarter of an inch longer than the foot to allow of its working forward, which it will inevitably do.

Where the feet are liable to become tender or blister powdering with starch powder is an excellent thing. Thick woolen stockings should always be worn when a long walk is taken by persons who suffer from these things.

Corns are troublesome things to cure, and by far the best plan of curing them is to have them properly extracted by a pedicure or chiropodist. It is dangerous to cut them oneself, as there is always the risk of cutting too deep. In mild cases, however, burning with acetic acid often gives relief. The acid should be applied with the point of a wooden match, and great care should be taken to prevent its dropping on or coming in contact with the skin.

Perspiring feet are very unpleasant. In some persons, indeed, it almost amounts to a disease. One of the simplest and best remedies is to bathe the feet night and morning in soda and water and then to powder them thoroughly with pulverized alum and tannin, equal parts. The stockings should be changed daily—in fact, oftener if necessary.

As a preventive against chilblains, to wash the feet in alum and water is a capital plan.—Boston Globe.

How to Utilize Coal Dust.

Householders who find that they have been supplied with an undue proportion of dust with their coal may thus utilize it: Take three or four handfuls of common washing sodgi, and, having well wetted a bushel of coal dust, thoroughly mix the soda with it. Let it partly dry, and it will answer excellently for burning when a slow fire is required.

How to Freshen Oilcloth.

When oilcloth has been down for a few months and is losing the shiny surface, it can be renewed easily, and it will last twice as long. Melt a little ordinary glue in a pint of water, letting it stand on the top of the oven till dissolved. Wash the oilcloth thoroughly and let it dry. Then at night, when the traffic of the day is all over, go over the whole thing carefully with a piece of flannel dipped in the glue water. Choose a dry season of the year for doing it, and by morning the glue will be hard and will have put a fine gloss, as good as new, on your floor. To prevent the edges fraying make a stronger solution of glue, and while it is hot paint the edges of the oilcloth all round with a small brush.

How to Make Molasses Doughnuts.

One tablespoon sugar, one scant cup molasses, two well beaten eggs, one teaspoon melted lard, generous pinch of salt, one-half cup sweet milk. Beat all together thoroughly and add flour to make soft dough, two teaspoons baking powder mixed well in flour.

How to Cook Eels.

Skin a medium sized eel and cut it into lengths of six inches. Lard them with bacon and lean ham in two straight rows down each side of the back. Put the pieces into a shallow stewpan and cover them with white wine. When they are thoroughly blanched or parboiled, take them out and place them upon a dish, screened with gravy that has been simmered to a caramel. Add the liquor in which the collops were blanched and set the dish in a hot oven until the fish are a rich brown. Send them to the table upon the dish in which they were cooked. Garnish them with lemon slices and dust them with cayenne.

How to Make Fruit Salad.

Two bananas, one orange, two pears and other kinds of fruit which may be in season. Cut in slices and place in dish in alternate layers. Over all pour a colored sirup and serve. It may be served with whipped cream.

How to Care For the Cellar.

A pailful of unslacked lime in the cellar will overcome slight dampness. As soon as it is reduced to fine powder it should be replaced by fresh lime. Cellar windows should not be closed until there is actual danger of frost, as vegetables will sprout unless they are kept in a cool place. A clean, dry cellar is not only necessary in order to preserve vegetables and fruits which may be stored there, but as a safeguard against sickness in the family.

How to Make Ambrosia.

Peel and slice enough oranges to fill a dish and remove all seeds and tough skin. Put the slices in layers and cover each with grated cocoanut. A little sugar can be added if needed.

THE TEST THAT TELLS.

You Can Get All the Convincing Proof You Want by Reading Fort Wayne Papers.

When the reader wants any article of value he naturally prefers to deal with someone he can depend upon.

If mixed up in any law suit, a good, responsible lawyer is generally the first necessity sought.

If lost on a prairie, directions from a settler could be relied upon; those from a stranger would be doubted.

The test that tells the tale of merit is the test of friends and neighbors.

Fort Wayne people endorse Doan's Kidney Pills.

Can you ask for better evidence? Read this case:

Mr. W. T. Hume, of 35 East Williams street, carriage maker, says he was greatly benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills. His experience is given in his wife's words, as follows: "Mr. Hume procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Meyer Bros. & Co.'s drug store and was greatly benefited by them. He was much troubled with backache and rheumatism caused by disordered kidneys. His back was so lame he could hardly stoop and at times it was very painful for him to keep on working. The rheumatism was mostly in his ankles and caused him great suffering. As soon as he began taking Doan's Kidney Pills these symptoms of kidney trouble commenced to disappear and soon his kidneys were in better condition than they had been for years."

BIG DEAL IN TIMBER.

The Jasper (Ind.) Courier gives the following additional particulars concerning the extensive purchase of timber by a Fort Wayne firm, mentioned in The Sentinel some days ago: "The Mossman-Bayless Lumber company, of Fort Wayne, have bought all the Brosius timber in this locality and have also bought the J. & G. Friedman saw mill at Jasper and all of the latter company's timber, and have also bought of Jos. Jerger, sr., 160 acres of his land in Boone township, paying the latter $7,000 cash, and for the Friedman and Brosius purchase several thousand dollars more. The company, which is an incorporated one, will immediately put up a band saw mill on the Friedman site and calculate they have bought enough timber to run them two or three years, but expect to buy a good deal more in the meantime. They will want some residences for the employes to live in, but at present there is but one house in town vacant—that of Mr. Jos. I. Schuhmacher." W. C. Douglass, of North Manchester, will have the management of the mill.

SUES A TOWNSHIP.

Benjamin B. Schlatter, of Leo, has brought suit against Jackson civil township, of DeKalb county, and his claim is for $350. The case is now on trial at Auburn, Attorney Aiken, of this city, representing the plaintiff. The suit grows out of a bridge which Mr. Schlatter built for the township four years ago, accepting township orders for the amount due. A new trustee is now in charge and he declines to pay the orders on the ground that the debt is not legal; that the former trustee had no right to incur the indebtedness at that time, having no orders from the county commissioners authorizing him to do so. The case is being closely contested and is attracting much attention.

CAPTAIN ALLISON TONIGHT.

At the Wayne street M. E. church this evening Capt. E. H. Allison, the well-known scout and Indian diplomat, will deliver a lecture on Indian life that will doubtless prove of absorbing interest to all who hear it. Captain Allison spent many years among those primitive people and is perhaps as familiar with them as any living person. His prominence in the government's dealings with the Sioux tribe and his notable achievements in this connection will give his talk an added interest, and he will give a faithful portrayal of Indian character as it really is. Among the subjects treated will be the horrifying details of a grave robbery on the Bad River trail and many other startling revelations of life on the great Sioux reservation. The lecture is under the auspices of the Epworth league.

A GIFT OF $35,000.

Greencastle, Ind., Nov. 9.—Chancellor Hickman gave notice at chapel yesterday that a friend had given $35,000 for the endowment of a chair in the university. The name of the donor is withheld for the present, but the gift will become available in the near future. This gift makes $44,000 contributed to the endowment of DePauw university within a few weeks. Indiana friends are asked to give $500,000 as a twentieth century gift, but Chancellor Hickman expresses the belief that the gift will exceed this sum.

when you are in danger from disease. But Nature has her own danger signals. When pain shoots like a lightning flash along the nerves, when the heart beats feebly or irregularly, when there is unnatural fullness after eating, sour risings, headache, coated tongue or irritable temper, then Nature is plucking you by the sleeve and calling "stop!" To neglect these warnings is dangerous. Derangement of the stomach and its allied organs is but the beginning of trouble for the whole body.

As a complete cure for disease of the stomach and the organs of digestion and nutrition Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery stands without an equal. It purifies the blood, cleanses the system of poisonous accumulations, nourishes the starved nerves and builds up the entire body, blood and bone, muscle and nerve.

"It is with pleasure that I tell you what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pellets' have done for me," writes Mrs. T. M. Palmer, of Peede, Kaufman Co., Texas. "Two years ago I was taken with stomach and bowel trouble. Everything I ate would put me in distress. I lived two weeks on milk and even that gave me pain. I felt as though I would starve to death. Three doctors attended me—one said I had dyspepsia, two said catarrh of the stomach and bowels. They attended me (one at a time) for one year. I stopped taking their medicine and tried patent medicine; got no better, and I grew so weak and nervous my heart would flutter. I could not do any kind of work. Now I can do my house work very well, am gaining in flesh and strength, and can eat anything."

Attention Clothing Buyers! Something IMPORTANT!

Are you a judge of good clothing or do you go simply by appearance? Most people do. In fact, not one person in a hundred can tell much about it. All new clothing looks well, but there are other things to consider--the workmanship, quality of materials, trimmings, and linings are all essential points in good clothing, which only can be proven right by several weeks of solid wear, and then the mistake is often discovered too late. The clothing we sell has been selected and bought by experts--the minutest details have received careful consideration--the inside has been rigidly examined--the workmanship and fit closely observed. We offer you the advantage of immense assortments and insure you against all risk by inserting in the pocket of every garment our printed guaranty: "Satisfaction or your money back." And then here's something of greater importance--we ask half the usual clothing profit.

ONE CASE NOTE.

BRAIN FOOD

Is of Little Benefit Unless It Is Digested.

Nearly every one will admit that as a nation we eat too much meat and too little of vegetables and the grains.

For business men, office men and clerks, and in fact everyone engaged in sedentary or indoor occupations, grains, milk and vegetables are much more healthful.

Only men engaged in a severe out door manual labor can live on a heavy meat diet and continue in health.

As a general rule, meat once a day is sufficient for all classes of men, women and children, and grains, fruit and vegetables should constitute the bulk of food eaten.

But many of the most nutritious foods are difficult of digestion and it is of no use to advise brain workers to eat largely of grains and vegetables where the digestion is too weak too assimilate them properly.

It is always best to get the best results from our food that some simple and harmless digestive should be taken after meals to assist the relaxed digestive organs, and several years experience have proven Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to be a very safe, pleasant and effective digestive and a remedy which can be taken daily with the best results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can hardly be called a patent medicine, as they do not act on the bowels nor any particular organ but only on the food eaten. They supply what weak stomachs lack, pepsin diastase and by stimulating the gastric glands increase the natural secretion of hydrochloris acid.

People who make a daily practice of taking one or two of Stuart'sDyspepsia Tablets after each meal are sure to have perfect digestion, which means perfect health.

There is no danger of forming an injurious habit as the tablets contain absolutely nothing but natural digestivies; cocaine, morphine and similar drugs have no place in a stomach medicine and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are certainly the best known and most popular of all stomach remedies.

Ask your druggist for a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and after a week's use note the improvement in health, appetite and nervous energy.

WILL HUNT QUAIL.

Under the Indiana law the time for hunting quail commences tomorrow and the little fowls can be killed without interference from the law until January 1st. Already Fort Wayne hunters have brightened their guns, filled their shells and made preparations to go hunting and in the morning early hunters will be seen wending their way in all directions throughout the country. The hunters will have their troubles in some instances, notwithstanding the law permits the killing of the birds. The farmers in many localities have formed organizations to protect the birds on their farms and this year the hunters will find more "Don't trespass" signs than heretofore. Quail are plentiful in some localities and there promises to be plenty of them on the market, but to the average lover of the toothsome little birds there is bigger enjoyment in hunting them than in eating them. For several days quail have been on sale at restaurants, but inquiry developed that the birds were purchased in either Ohio or Michigan, where the law goes into effect earlier than in Indiana.

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents, at Dreier & Bros.' drug store.

Miss Jennie Farner, of East Butler street, was sewing, Wednesday afternoon, when she dropped part of her work to the floor. In picking it up a needle became imbedded in her right hand and broke off short. A doctor was summoned to remove the point.

HIS LIFE WAS SAVED.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with typhoid fever, that ran into pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Dreier & Bro.'s drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

While New York courts have ruled that automobiles can enter Central park, the park board insists they shall not.

JOHN'S FIRST WIFE.

—BY—

ZOE ANDERSON NORRIS

Copyright, 1899, by Zoe A. Norris.

The air was crisp outside, but the roomy kitchen was warm and sunny. Mingled with the grateful heat was the odor of sprinkled linen, steaming under the iron. Linen hung on clothes-horses and on the backs of chairs, and still the wicker basket underneath the ironing board groaned with sheets, pillowslips, tablecloths and napkins neatly piled in soft damp rolls.

Ann Quigley stood at the board ironing. As she ironed she chatted with her neighbor, Susan Stephens, who had come in with her knitting from across the way.

"You don't mind my going right along with my work, do you?" she asked. Susan shook her head, her lips being occupied with counting inarticulate stitches. "Today's Tuesday, you know, and the ironing's got to be finished. It goes against grain to leave it over till Wednesday, for Wednesdays I bake. Besides, I can work and talk at the same time."

She straightened out a sheet, tested an iron with the tip of a wet finger and passed it across, back and forth, this way and that, sidewise.

"You are a good housekeeper, Ann," said Susan admiringly. "You are given up to be the best housekeeper in this town. John Quigley got a prize when he got you. Everybody says so."

Ann stopped short, resting her hot iron on the sheet so long that when she suddenly remembered and took it off there was the print of it in a fine light brown.

"See what you made me do!" she cried, and, snatching up the sheet, she took a shining pail from a shelf, filled it at the sink and soused the linen into the water. "Maybe it will come out," she muttered, "but I don't know. I'm afraid not."

"I am awfully sorry!" apologized Susan contritely.

"Never mind. I'll leave it to soak. I guess it will come out." She folded another sheet across the board. "It was my fault," she said. "You surprised me so. And they talk like that, do they? I'm a good housekeeper and John got a prize when he got me, eh?"

"That's what they say!" asserted Susan.

Ann ironed awhile in silence.

"And they say you're a splendid cook, too," added Susan, anxious to atone for the scorched sheet.

Ann smiled, well pleased. Then she sighed.

"It don't make much difference how good a housekeeper you are, Susan," she said reflectively, "or how good a cook. Things like that don't make a man care anything more for you. He kinder expects it of you. All the cooking in the world won't keep a man from thinking about somebody else if he's a mind to. It won't make him forget."

"What do you mean?" asked Susan. "You don't mean John?"

"Yes, John. Do you remember his first wife?"

"Umph, hum! But she wasn't a patching to you when it comes to housekeeping."

"Maybe not," mused Ann wistfully, "but there must have been something mighty lovable about her. She's been dead five years now this coming June, and John hasn't forgotten her yet. And what's more, I don't believe he ever will forget her."

She folded the sheet into squares, pressed it lovingly between her palms—it was so clean and white and smooth, and Ann's soul rejoiced in cleanliness and whiteness and smoothness—and laid it on a chair. Then, taking a towel from the basket, she shook out the fringe and spread it on the board.

"She was a pretty woman," she continued, briskly ironing the bright red border, "and beauty goes a long way with a man. Nobody would ever accuse me of being pretty," she added, with a constrained laugh, and Susan, looking up, was forced mentally to confess the truth of her remark. Her purple calico, starched and bristling with cleanliness, set off a fairly good figure, but aside from that little could be said in her favor.

"You've got pretty hair, Ann," she ventured encouragingly.

Ann sighed again. "Yes, I've got pretty hair," she acknowledged, "but hair don't count much when your face is plain."

Her face was plain. There was no gainsaying it. Its plainness was accentuated by the halo of reddish brown hair.

"Beauty ain't but skin deep," said Susan sententiously.

"Yes, but ugliness is to the bone," finished Ann.

There followed a period of energetic silence freighted with thought.

"John's first wife was pretty," repeated Ann by and by, "mighty pretty. She was young and fresh and bloomy, like a flower. She was one of them southern women what don't know any more about housekeeping than a fly, but they know how to make the same house where they lived together. That makes it worse. There's the little front porch where they used to sit of evenings. When he and I sit there in the summer time and I see his eyes way off yonder, I know he's thinking of her."

She ironed slowly, staring through the window, her own eyes moist. "I know," she reiterated softly, "that he is thinking how he used to sit there with her, and he is wishing it was him and her again instead of him and me."

She took to ironing faster.

"I'll never forget the day she died," she continued. "She died three days after the baby was born. She never liked me somehow, but I didn't let that interfere with doing my neighborly duty by her. I went over and helped take care of her.

"The baby was born dead, but she grieved after it the same as if it had been a living child. She would lie there staring up at the ceiling and grieving until it was pitiful to see her. I believe it was that that killed her. She didn't want to live and it died. One day she made me bring out its little clothes and lay them on the bed all around her. She fingered the sleeves, the tears rolling down her cheeks. 'There'll never be any little arms in them,' she said and turned her face to the wall.

"I put the things back in the drawer where she couldn't see them any more.

"That last day she was burning up with fever. Her little feet were hot as fire. So were her hands. She talked flighty about the baby, about how she wanted to see it and they wouldn't let her. How could they and it dead? I sat on the edge of the bed, stroking her poor hot feet, when suddenly they began to get cold, and she stopped talking.

"I send for John in a hurry. When he came, he was like a madman. He knelt down by her bed and begged her to listen to him. 'Don't go away without telling me goodby, sweetheart!' he said, a-sobbing between the words. 'Don't leave me like this! Say goodby to me, sweetheart!'

"I put my hand on his shoulder. I wanted to tell him that she was past speaking, and past hearing for that matter, but he stared up at me as if he had never seen me before. 'Go away,' he said. 'Leave me alone with her, can't you? Go away!' And he gave me a push.

"I went out and shut the door."

She leaned her elbows on the board and looked hard at Susan, who had dropped her knitting in her lap.

"I think the only reason he married me," she said sadly, "was because I took good care of her. But sometimes I wish he hadn't. He'll never forget her, and I can't make him. I do everything I can to please him. I keep this place like wax from garret to cellar, but it might be better shelter from one week's end to the other for all the notice he takes of it. I stand in this kitchen for hours cooking things to please him, and he hardly tastes them. He sits and stares across the table at me, and I know he doesn't see me. He sees her there opposite him in her old place that I have taken. The look in his eyes hurts me, Susan."

Susan heaved a sigh and again took up the glove. "Maybe you imagine it," she said.

Ann stood erect. She replaced the cold iron with a hot one.

"I wish I did," she said. "I only wish I did. I don't complain. You mustn't think that. He is kind to me. There couldn't be a kinder man, but kindness ain't all a woman wants. She wants a little love mixed up with it sometimes—just a little bit of love.

"Listen! Last night I was lying by his side while awake and he asleep and dreaming. After awhile he threw his arm around my neck and kissed me in his sleep. 'Sweetheart,' he said, 'my sweetheart!' You'd have felt sorry for me then if you could have seen how still I lay, hardly daring to breathe for fear he would wake and find that it was me there by his side and not his 'sweetheart.'"

"Maybe he meant you," said Susan. "Don't he ever call you 'sweetheart?'"

"No, and he never called her anything else."

The basket was empty. Not a single towel, sheet, napkin or pillowslip remained to interfere with Ann's work on Wednesday—her baking day. She was ironing the last piece, a damask tablecloth, her best cloth, which she reserved for company. Traced upon it was a pattern of ivy leaves. Under the manipulation of her iron this pattern shone, raised into brilliancy by the heat and the pressure of her strong right hand.

A tear dropped. She quickly ironed it out and, passing her sleeve across her eyes, caught two other tears.

Then the slow, soft sweep of the iron over the steaming linen, back and forth, this way and that and sidewise, made rhythmical music in the silent room, while Susan's needles clicked in silent sympathy.

Fashions in Candy.

The confectionery trade is a trade of topsy turvydom. There is as much fashion in it as in the craft of evolving those creations of fallals, flowers and feathers whose ultimate destination is the adornment of ladies' heads. Time was when the hardpan goods were the one thing needful; these were ousted from public favor by the American invention of soft centered pan goods, jelly beans and so on. Jap nuggets had a reign, and a long one, and might fitly be styled the Victorian reign of this era, so far as candy is concerned. Hunky panky, slapjack and a thousand others of like kind had a brief popularity, to give way, in turn, to some other cunning form of candy weaving. It is to this ever changing fancy that the candy trade owes its vitality, and so long as there are inventive brains ready to devise new forms, so long will the trade be prosperous.—Exchange.

THERE is a certain stylish effect about garments made from these Celebrated Patterns that is not attained by the use of any other patterns.

SHOP AND RAIL.

JOHN KELKER VISITS OLD-TIME FRIENDS.

LIVED HERE MANY YEARS AGO

AND RAN AN ENGINE ON THE PITTSBURG.

FITTING UP BRASS FOUNDRY

TWO SMALL FURNACES PUT IN OPERATION.

John Kelker, of Pueblo, Col., is visiting his brothers, Anthony and Samuel Kelker, and circulating among old friends. Mr. Kelker is master mechanic of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, a position he has filled for many years. He has been at Dunkirk, N. Y., for several weeks, inspecting some engines that are being built by the Brooks Locomotive works for his company, and stopped off here a few days en route to his home. Prior to 1863, Mr. Kelker was employed as an engineer on the Pittsburg road and was one of the best known railroad men in this section of the country. In that year he went west and shortly afterward became an employe of the company which he is now serving in the capacity of master mechanic. Mr. Kelker says he finds a few of his old associates here, but the vast majority of them are either dead or have moved to other cities. He will remain here until next Sunday. It is now twenty-two years since Mr. Kelker visited Fort Wayne the last time and he had not seen his brothers, Tony and Sam, in all that time.

ANOTHER VISITOR.

Dr. J. M. Kells, of Columbus, O., spent the forenoon here with his old railway friends. Dr. Kells is en route home from Chicago, where he witnessed the departure of Mrs. Kells and her mother upon a tour of the Pacific states. The ladies expect to be absent about two months. Dr. Kells is the medical examiner for the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association, an office he held in this city several years prior to the administration of Dr. E. F. Wagner. Charlie Kells, a son of the doctor, accompanies his father on the visit.

THE YORK DAMAGE SUIT.

The York damage suit, which comes up for trial at Plymouth next Monday, will be bitterly contested and will be watched with interest by all railway men familiar with the case. York was a fireman on the Nickel Plate, and while "putting in a fire" one of the boiler flues exploded and the force of the steam carried the fireman out through the gangway and dropped him upon the ground. His injuries were such that he died in a few days after the accident. His wife now brings suit for $5,000. The accident happened near Burkett, Ind., February 20, 1899. T. E. Short was the engineer at the throttle. He, as well as a number of other engineers and mechanics from this city and Stony Island will appear as witnesses in the case.

CRAZY MAN ON A TRAIN.

A special dispatch to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat tells the following interesting story: "The conductor and brakeman of a Wabash freight train had an exciting adventure last night with a wild man named Samuel Shafer, who insisted on boarding the train at Lagro to ride twelve miles to Huntington. He was delirious from drink and when pushed off his shoulder blade was broken; he again boarded the caboose, drove the conductor to the front and the brakeman to the rear platform. They locked the doors and were in mortal fear he would break them down and kill them, as he threatened. As the train rushed through Andrews the conductor threw a message off asking the marshal at Huntington to meet the train and arrest a lunatic. The Andrews operator sent the dispatch and an officer captured Shafer, who was locked up."

RENEWING A BRIDGE.

The Illinois Central yesterday began important work at Dubuque, Iowa, chief of which is the renewal of the structural part of the bridge spanning the river at that point. Over 100 men are at work upon the bridge and their task will consume the entire winter. The reconstruction work will be accomplished so as to not interfere with traffic. The new bridge will cost about $250,000.

W. J. Hemphill, master mechanic of the St. Louis, Peoria and Northern, has been appointed division master mechanic for the eastern division of the Chicago and Alton, with headquarters at Bloomington.

The railways running into East St. Louis have agreed to erect a relay depot at that point and have so notified the Illinois State Railroad and Warehouse commission, which held a meeting in Springfield yesterday.

SHOPMEN HURT.

James A. Wise and William Wartenbee, the latter of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, and the former of the tank shop, are off duty on account of accidents that happened to them yesterday. While lifting a bumper beam, Mr. Wise slipped and severely sprained his back. Mr. Wartenbee received his injuries on Holman street, where a bicyclist ran against and knocked him over. One side of his face was cut and bruised by coming in contact with the brick pavement and his right side and hip were also bruised most painfully.

NEW BRASS SHOP.

The Pennsylvania company has fitted up a small brass foundry adjacent to the machine shop for the manufacture of rocker arm boxings and hub liners, pieces used on engines. Two furnaces have been set up by the side of the big smoke stack at the boiler room, west of the machine shop, and a small enclosure made, in which is a bench and accommodations for three or four men, if that many are needed. In a small way this little shop will take the place of the more extensive one recently moved to Allegheny and enlarged. All the larger and most important brasses used in the shops in this city are now made at Allegheny.

HONORED AN OLD COMRADE.

The employes of the Wabash blacksmith shop paid their respects to their former foreman and old friend last night. With James Houlihan as their spokesman, a number of the men repaired to the residence of Daniel Campbell, where they presented him with a handsome and costly watch chain, charm and scarf pin. The latter was emblematic of the Odd Fellows, an order in which Mr. Campbell is a prominent participant. Mr. Campbell responded in his characteristic manner to the presentation speech, inviting his callers to make "themselves at home," an invitation they were not slow in accepting. After a very pleasant hour spent in social chat, in which "old times" was an interesting subject, Mrs. Campbell served lunch and shortly afterwards the men left for their homes. Mr. Campbell was foreman of the Wabash blacksmith shop for a quarter of a century and he was held in the highest esteem by the men who worked there. Failing health compelled him to relinquish the office several month ago, and since that time he has not been engaged at any work. His health has improved, however, and he has now under consideration two offers of lucrative positions, one from the Grand Trunk, and he may decide to accept one of them.

RAILROADING IN THE FIFTIES.

The railroader of today is disposed to complain of his lot sometimes and to imagine that his duties are more arduous and dangerous now than were the duties of the men engaged in the same work some years ago. But with the single exception of the fireman on one of the big moguls, the trainman's work of today is a "snap" in comparison with the work of the railroader of half a century ago. The following account of an accident, which illustrates the hardships of pioneer railroading, is taken from a copy of the Fort Wayne Sentinel, dated January 26, 1856, nearly forty-four years ago: "The passenger train which left Toledo yesterday morning at half-past 2 o'clock did not reach this city until half-past 7 o'clock last evening, having been seventeen hours making the passage that should have been made in five hours. While in the forest the water pipes leading from the tank to the boiler froze and burst, rendering the engine useless, except so far as the water already in the boiler was of service. The engineer detached his engine and started for the nearest station for help, but had only gone a short distance before he ran into a snow-drift without the possibility of extricating himself. The train was left in the woods, three or four miles from any dwelling. Many of the passengers were women and children and the intense cold occasioned much suffering among them, several of them suffering frozen feet and hands. The fireman on the engine, after it had become fastened in the snow-drift, had both feet frozen and the engineer and two other persons carried him on their backs to the nearest house, the poor fellow suffering intensely meanwhile. An engine was finally secured and dispatched to the rescue, bringing the train and its suffering occupants through to this city. The passengers have terrible stories concerning the trip to relate."

PLACING DYNAMOS.

WORK FOR FORT WAYNE MEN.

As soon as navigation closes on Lake Erie, the boats owned by the Wabash company will be thoroughly overhauled and the work will be under the supervision of Master Mechanic McKee and performed by Fort Wayne workmen. The boiler work will be particularly heavy and will furnish employment to several men a good portion of the winter. G. G. Nickol, foreman of the Wabash boiler department, will have charge of it. All the work that must be done in the shops will be brought here, but a good portion of it must be performed on the boats.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fulford have returned from Elgin, Ill., where they went some time ago to visit friends. Mr. Fulford had the bones of his left foot crushed at the shops last month and he is still unable to walk, except by the aid of crutches.

North Manchester Herald: "Oliver Fox goes to Fort Wayne Friday, where he has been promised a position of firing on the Wabash."

The Fort Wayne Electric company this morning shipped another car load of new style Wood arc lamps to Chicago, where the company has a contract for putting up 1,000.

The local railway agents have been notified of the lifting of the yellow fever quarantine in the south and tickets to all points are again on sale. Local agents have also been informed that reduced rates on all one way colonists' second class tickets will be withdrawn on the 15th inst.

Frank Opatz, the well known blacksmith in the Pittsburg shops, was summoned to Indianapolis last night by a telegram informing him of the serious illness of his wife. Mrs. Opatz went to Indianapolis several days ago to visit relatives and her husband did not know she was sick until he was summoned to her bedside.

Foreman George W. Smith, of the Wabash machine shop, has won the everlasting good will of the apprentice boys in that establishment by issuing an order releasing them from duty at 5 o'clock in the evening. The boys were formerly compelled to work so late that they could not pay due attention to their sweethearts and the "girls" registered a kick at the shop.

James Hamilton, the Nickel Plate brakeman, who never handled a more formidable weapon than the toy pistol, has, through his association with the "mighty" hunters to be found in the ranks of the Nickel Plate trainmen, become so imbued with the spirit of Nimrod that he has been induced to invest in an elaborate shooting outfit and will spend a portion of the hunting season in the field and forest. He has taken a lay-off in order to participate in the hunt before the birds have been killed or driven out of the country.

Only Two Ways of Making Soap.

One From the Fresh Green Leaves of the Tasmanian Blue Gum Tree.

All the Rest From Grease, Fats or Oils, Combined With an Alkali.

THE NEW SOAP.

A Perfect Skin Healer and a Delightful Refreshing Toilet Article.

NO OTHER LIKE IT.

The first skin and toilet soap ever manufactured by the new process is proving a revelation to soap users. This is not surprising when you remember that heretofore it has been thought impossible to make soap of any kind without fats, grease, oil and alkali. These ingredients have been the base of all soaps from time immemorial, and have been collected by street scavengers, or purchased from incinerating plants which burn the refuse of our cities; not an agreeable thing to think of, but nevertheless true. To be sure many of these are nicely perfumed and no doubt made as pure as possible; but if the alkali is strong enough to kill the grease and oil, it destroys and hardens the skin; if the reverse, the pores of the skin become clogged and disease follows, ALL THE MEDICATION in the world cannot prevent it—what a delightful change then to have a soap free from these ingredients and made from the fragrant, green leaves of the Tasmanian Blue Gum Tree, these leaves being acknowledged by the medical profession as the most harmless, as well as the most powerful germ destroyer and skin purifier known.

A bath with Hyomei Skin Soap is simply delightful. It leaves the skin soft, cool and refreshed, imparting to it the peach-like bloom of health.

It is guaranteed to cure all diseases of the skin. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail, price 25 cents.

Unmatchable Prices.

Why? Can't buy these suits from manufacturers today for less than 30 per cent. advance over the price we paid for them three months ago.

A few facts and figures to put in your book:

Advances since March 1st, 1899: Lumber, 110 per cent; pig iron, 125 per cent; steel wire, 145 per cent; castors, 55 per cent, and so on.

We anticipated the tremendous rise in prices and therefore bought early and very heavy. Our floors are groaning under the immense weight. If you are not a customer of ours we would ask you to examine these goods and above all—THE PRICES—and see whether we cannot save you money. Personally, WE know that we CAN, but we're not satisfied with that—we want YOU to feel POSITIVELY SURE that you save money when you purchase of us.
